A NOTE

FROM FREEDOME & MANDY

Welcome to The Public! We are thrilled you are joining us for this world premiere, a musical retelling of the groundbreaking Jamaican film THE HARDER THEY COME. The film, directed by Perry Henzell and co-written with Trevor Rhone, first released in 1972, thrust Jamaica, reggae music, and a then-unknown Jimmy Cliff onto the world stage.

We are privileged to share with you all the heart and talent of this international cast. Many of you have grown up on some of the songs you'll hear tonight, and we hope you'll enjoy discovering the new songs written by The Public's Writer-in-Residence, Suzan-Lori Parks, who has done a fantastic job reimagining this story for our audience, telling it with a sensitivity that is heartbreaking at times.

Kenny Seymour's music supervision, orchestrations, and arrangements are a powerful backdrop to the show. Edgar Godineaux's choreography mixes dancehall's rugged energy, rockers' tenderness, and carnival's joyfulness. Expertly staged by Co-Director Sergio Trujillo, THE HARDER THEY COME moves with grace and fluidity seldom captured on the stage. It envelops you fully and viscerally. This production is grounded in a world Director Tony Taccone has intricately detailed with a deft storytelling hand.

We are compelled to tell vital and relevant stories that speak to us now. That is what you will witness tonight. Ivan chases his dreams, yet struggles under crippling poverty. He looks for support from social systems and finds limited options. This lack of opportunities erodes his trust, and desperation moves to occupy that space. As a society, we are struggling with an absence of trust. We see fear metastasize into violence.

One of the joys of theater is that it gives us a forum to grapple with these issues.

To feel, to live, and to dream. That is the power of theater. It inspires us to build a better tomorrow now.

As an extension of that power, over the past few years, we have embarked on a comprehensive Cultural Transformation plan that engages our staff, Board of Trustees, and artists, with an emphasis on making space and including more people equitably and ethically. This play allows us to live those values and connect more deeply and excitingly with our community. We are so honored that you are here.

We are happy to connect with you and hope you enjoy this production!
